This workshop was based on information presented in three of the SSIP Interactive Institute sessions: Implications of Growth Modeling for SSIP, Performance Indicators As a Tool for Measuring Progress Toward a SIMR, and Considerations for Making Changes to SIMR Baseline and Targets. During the workshop, participants were able to talk to and learn from participants from other states and provide input for the development of IDC white papers that address growth modeling, measuring progress toward a SIMR, and changing baseline and targets. The three white papers are currently in draft form and undergoing revisions based on input from the field. Published papers will be posted to the IDC Resource Library and affiliated as companion resources to the handout posted for this session.
